The class of 1983 is the tenth to graduate from the Newton North building. Designed for the early '70's when student unrest required a strong outside and student comfort demanded a pleasant inside, the building has lasted through an almost complete change in teaching methods and more than 10,000 students.

Marya Levenson became principal at North this year after serving as Assistant Director of Harvard University's Principal's Center. When Richard Mechem announced that he would retire after more than twenty years as principal, interest in his successor ran high. The Newtonite demanded access to the search committee's decision and was among the first to announce Mrs. Levenson's name as a finalist.

Although Mrs. Levenson had attended Bennington and Brandeis, Boston University, and Harvard, North's corridors presented a new kind of learning experience. She feels grateful to teachers, staff, PTSA members, and students for their welcoming. Ever since Senior Class President Larry Tafe introduced her to the student body, she said, "People have been very supportive."

Mrs. Levenson lost no time in getting acquainted with North. To make herself more accessible to everyone, she visited homerooms and classes and could frequently be found on Main Street where students could come up to her and discuss policy issues. Mrs. Levenson even appeared in the school musical Carousel as, of course, a high-school principal. After school, Mrs. Levenson works towards her doctorate and spends time with her husband and their three children.

The balance between extracurriculars and course work is, she feels, North's greatest asset. She has sensed a real commitment to teaching and learning among faculty and students, as well as a large school's opportunities for enjoyment.

For the future, Mrs. Levenson looks forward to many changes. The addition of a ninth grade in the fall of 1983 has prompted new ideas about the curriculum. Even the schedule will be changed to give students more opportunities to take the new classes. With the dedicated and professional faculty, Mrs. Levenson sees dynamic and exciting prospects for the school.

Dr. John Strand
Superintendent of Schools

Dan Malia
Technical-Vocational Director

Atwood P. Dunham
Assistant Principal

Dr. John Strand, the new Superintendent of Schools, comes to Newton after working at various educational positions, including teacher, principal, and Superintendent of the Pelham, N.Y. system. Strand feels great respect for the Newton schools, whose quality he works to continue. Outside of his office, Dr. Strand enjoys cooking for his family of three and playing Donkey Kong.

Dan Malia, formerly housemaster of Riley House, is in charge of the entire Newton Technical-Vocational program. His job includes directing Business, Home Economics, and Work-Study programs across the city, especially at North where the departments are such an important part of the school. Malia has dedicated himself to providing Newton students with a comprehensive and caring Technical-Vocational system.

Atwood P. Dunham has served as Administrative Assistant to the Principal for thirteen years, becoming one of the most recognizable members of the North administration. From the morning announcements to the afternoon activities, his responsibilities are far-ranging, including schedules, grades, and graduation. Through all his work, Dunham still finds time to teach a class in his original subject, mathematics.

North High is divided into five houses, administrative units which shrink the school down to manageable size. The house system brings the administration closer to the students and divides the school into well-organized sections. Each house includes four floors of homerooms and hundreds of color-coded lockers. A housemaster's duties include running the house office, keeping up the house commons room and above all looking after the students in his house.

Two guidance counselors work in each house, aiding students from their first arrival in school to their college and career choices. Housemasters and counselors are dedicated to helping their students find most opportunities at North.

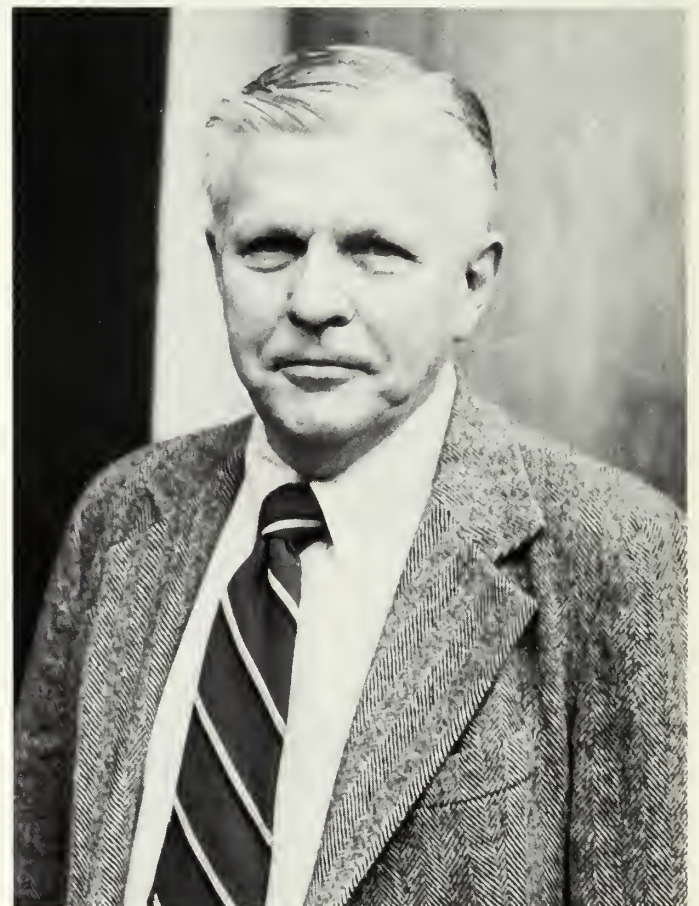

Each house has a council of students from the various homerooms. Councils work throughout the year, raising money for charitable causes and the annual house scholarships.

I have great respect and admiration for the human spirit. I know we can learn to care about one another, listen to what others say, understand how people feel and, then, share with them our ideas.

This whole process is captured by the words of a song your parents may remember, "the greatest thing you'll ever learn is to love and be loved in return."

We have some great people in the senior class, each unique with his or her own personal dreams and desires.

The Newtonian was prominent throughout the year as the editors and their staffs worked to publish Newton North's yearbook. Bake sales, candy sales, raffles, and even yearbook sales were among the fundraisers run by The Newtonian staff. The sale of leftover candid pictures during Harvestfest '82 caused the most excitement of all; our principal, Mrs. Levenson, was seen walking away with more than fifty photos!

Meanwhile, advertising was being sold, copy written, artwork drawn, photos taken and laid out. The staff worked during homeroom and on evenings to meet deadlines with the publisher.

On a personal note, The Newtonian would like to thank Margaret Tavitian, our advisor, for working and caring for us this past year.

The Newtonite maintained its strong tradition of excellence this year from front-page stories on the teacher-contract negotiations to latest reports of North's sports' victories. Its fine quality was once again recognized by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, who listed it among the top fourteen school papers in the country with a medalist rating, and by the New England Scholastic Association, who awarded the staff with First Place for a school newspaper in New England. 1982 Editor-in-Chief Ken Sabbag, Advisor Helen Smith, and all the staff have made the newspaper a vital part of the school, a task carried on by Jennifer Slack and the 1983 staff.

This year the Newtonite inaugurated SCOOP, a teletext magazine produced from Channel 2. Students and teachers can watch televised information in a special room in the library. NESPA has also praised the Newtonite for helping to bring SCOOP to North.

The Newtonite, founded in 1922, is the newspaper of Newton North High School, 360 Lowell Ave., Newtonville, Mass. 02460. It is published 16 times during the school year at $2.00 per yearly subscription.

Newtonite editorials are the views of the writers. Unsigned editorials represent the official position of the Newtonite. Readers are invited to submit guest editorials, articles and letters to the editor.

To be run in the next edition, letters must be in the Newtonite box in Barry House by the Friday after the paper is circulated. We reserve the right to edit all letters, which must have the writer's name, class and homeroom printed on them.

To place an ad in the Newtonite, please call 552-7737.
The Newtonite staff does all the typesetting, paste up and camera work for each edition.

We are proud to announce that the Newtonite has won two distinguished awards.

The Newtonite took the Class I First Place All New England Award in Scholastic Editing and Publishing from the New England Scholastic Press Association for the fourth time in five years.

This award for overall excellence involves writing and research, layout, typography,

The newspaper also received a Special Achievement award in broadcasting for the Newtonite's staff coordination with WGBH T.V. in the experimental teletext magazine entitled SCOOP. Special recognition went to managing editor Jack Ricciardi and production manager Jeff Tolbert.

NESPA director Robert Baram, a professor at Boston University's School of Public Communication, presented the awards at the association's annual convention Friday, Nov. 5.

"The staff deserves tremendous credit for these achievements," said editor-in-chief Kenneth Sabbag.

"The teletext experiment makes us especially proud because it involves a new form of journalism."

THOUGHTPRINTS STAFF — Ellen Breslau, Robyn Glayier, Diana Selig, Laura Gonnerman, Joan Lin, Lisa Tessman, Hank Abermayer, John Bell, Bob Gruber, Rachel Israel, Allison Plastridge, Marc Hoffman, Karleen Wise, Pippa Hamann, Pauline Abermathy, Sarah Madsin, Emily Weisberg, Amy Beretska, Susan Birdsey, Laure Jaffe, Margaret May, Dan Klerman, Linda Lin, Evelyn Talmo, Danny Brotman, Karni Seigel, Rachel Hecksher, Laura Annunziatzi, Jennifer Shuster, Andrea Branfon, Chris Cahill, Pupun Sarkar, Betsy Breslauf, Liz Carrie Ford, Miriam Tuchman, Betsy Subrin.

Thoughtprints art and literary magazine provided an outlet for students' creative work in two issues this year. The Literary and Art Staffs debated and decided on each story, poem, essay, drawing, photo, or sculpture. The Production Staff laid out and pasted up the work for printing, and Publicity Staff finally sold the magazine. Then the Publicity Staff campaigned for new submissions, and the process started over again. Editor-in-Chief Laurel Sgan and the Thoughtprints staffs produced two issues, a calendar in the spring and a magazine in the fall.

Thoughtprints homeroom remained an important part of school life as well. Students could relax in comfortable surroundings, able to study and socialize away from the noise of the corridors and the quiet of the library. Overseen by Thoughtprints advisor John Harris and neighbor Barbara Killion, the homeroom was a welcome place to retire.

STUDENT-FACULTY-ADMINISTRATION BOARD

The Student-Faculty-Administration Board is the school's policy-making organization. Eight students, five faculty members and three members of the administration sit on the SFA, a forum where people can express their concerns about the school.

This year, the SFA discussed important issues at length, such as plans for the incoming ninth grade, class rank, needs assessments, homeroom, and revision of the board's constitution.

The student representatives this year, elected by the whole school, were, among seniors: Co-Chairman Michael Kubzansky, Sue Wolfson, Eve Shamieh, Margaret Murphy, and alternate Joshua Ditelberg; junior Jimmy Walker, and sophomores Brian Bryan and Stephen Anthony. The faculty and administration were represented by Co-Chairman Marlene Yesley, Alison Kenny-Hall, Anne Serafin, John Livingston, Ned Rossiter, Norman Gaudet, and principal Marya Levenson. Senior Gary Rosen and junior Lissie Cohen served as Co-Secretaries.

The Interhouse Council was created to promote school-wide unity among students. Representatives sit in on it from all the House Councils and most organizations in the school. Interhouse was responsible for organizing Harvestfair, Main Street Expo. and Springfest as events in which the whole school could participate. After only a short time, the Interhouse Council has become one of the most productive organizations at North.

FRENCH CLUB

The French Club once again looked forward to a trip au Quebec, this year to Montreal during April vacation. Members raised funds for this excursion by selling candy and running bake sales. Among the local activities of our Francophiles were movie-going, la belle cuisine, and French parties.

SPANISH EXCHANGE

Eighteen students from North had their chance to visit La Coruña and Madrid, Spain for a month. After many sessions of preparation and fund-raising, they arrived in La Coruna to live with their Spanish families, attend classes at their school, and see the sights of that port city. An extended visit to Madrid, Spain's largest city and its capital, was one of the trip's highlights. Later in the spring, the Spanish students came to America and North for their vacation.

SPANISH EXCHANGE — Catherine Albanese, Margaret Mary Alexander, Greg Collins, Nancy Corbato, Kenneth Flishman, Joel Gorn, Nina James, Andrea Karp, Deborah Laredo, Gina Mazzola, Valeria Migliassi, Deborah Rosenberg, Mara Sibley, Leslie Ann Soyka, Sheryl Sulkin, Veronica Toole, Amy Weisman, Mary Beth Whoriskey.

FRENCH EXCHANGE

North and L'Ecole Massillon in Paris once again exchanged students in 1983. Groups on both sides of the Atlantic met for several weeks to be ready for their month-long stays as guests of another country and family. Eighteen Newton students travelled to France in February for four weeks of French activities, Paris sight-seeing, and even occasional classes. In the spring, the French students came to stay with their American counterparts and to tour the sights of Boston and New York.

FRENCH EXCHANGE — Laura Allen, Monica Becker, Kimberly Buckman, Kevin Douville, Carolyn Ford, Rosa Gonzalez, Jon Klavens, Kim Leinwand, Annette Livine, Jason Loviglio, Chris Macomber, Pamela Mosher, Robert Philipp, Emily Pinckney, Ed Rubin, Eve Shamilh, Hilary Smith, Peter Wekstein.

SKI CLUB

SKI CLUB OFFICERS — Michael Dunbar, Phil Russell, Craig Patrick, John King. Advisor, Stuart Rist.

SHAKESPEAREAN PLAYERS

The Shakespearean Players see themselves as the heirs to the Bard's own King's Men by promoting theater at Newton North. The Players sponsored a play-writing contest in January, and performed the winning entry later in the year. The troupe's other activities center around movie and theater-going, and North's first organized game of "Killer."

SCUBA

One of North's newest organizations, the Scuba Club was founded to promote the enjoyment of Self-Contained Underwater Breathing Apparati — scuba gear. With the motto, "North divers go deeper," the club practiced their dives and looked forward to several expeditions throughout the year. Members planned a lobster hunt and bake on the beach.

SCUBA CLUB MEMBERS — Guido Vitti, Raphael Wynd, Devin Sullivan, Mike Nobeley, Chuck Mael, Paul Aswad, George Wing, Susan Hershberg.

MATH TEAM

The Math Team, in the Greater Boston Mathematics League, had the best year ever since it was founded. They remained on the Top Ten list and hosted their own tournament at North.

NEWTON POKER CLUB

Founded in 1981, the Newton Poker Club (NPC) meets regularly to preserve the traditional Friday night poker game "with the boys." All meetings are played according to international rules and the NPC, in keeping with the "true poker spirit," tries to be authentic by serving traditional refreshments, adopting traditional poker mannerisms and playing with traditional money.

Harvestfest, sponsored by Interhouse Council, took place on the Tuesday before Thanksgiving. Many organizations from the school community sponsored booths with varying themes. Beals House sold cotton candy, Adams House sponsored a pie-eating contest, and the S.F.A. presented its "Baby Booth." Other events were the tootsie roll eating competition, Transition's nail-banging booth, and Newtonian photo sale. All told, the event was a success.

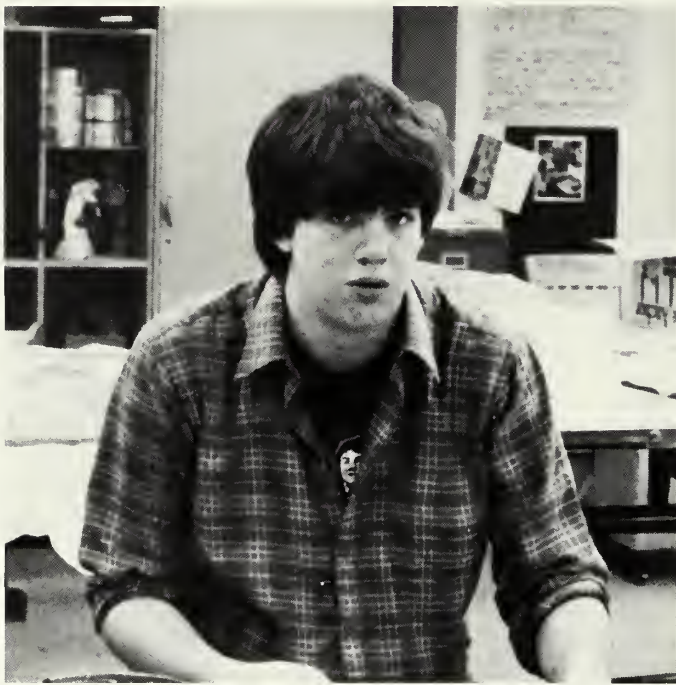

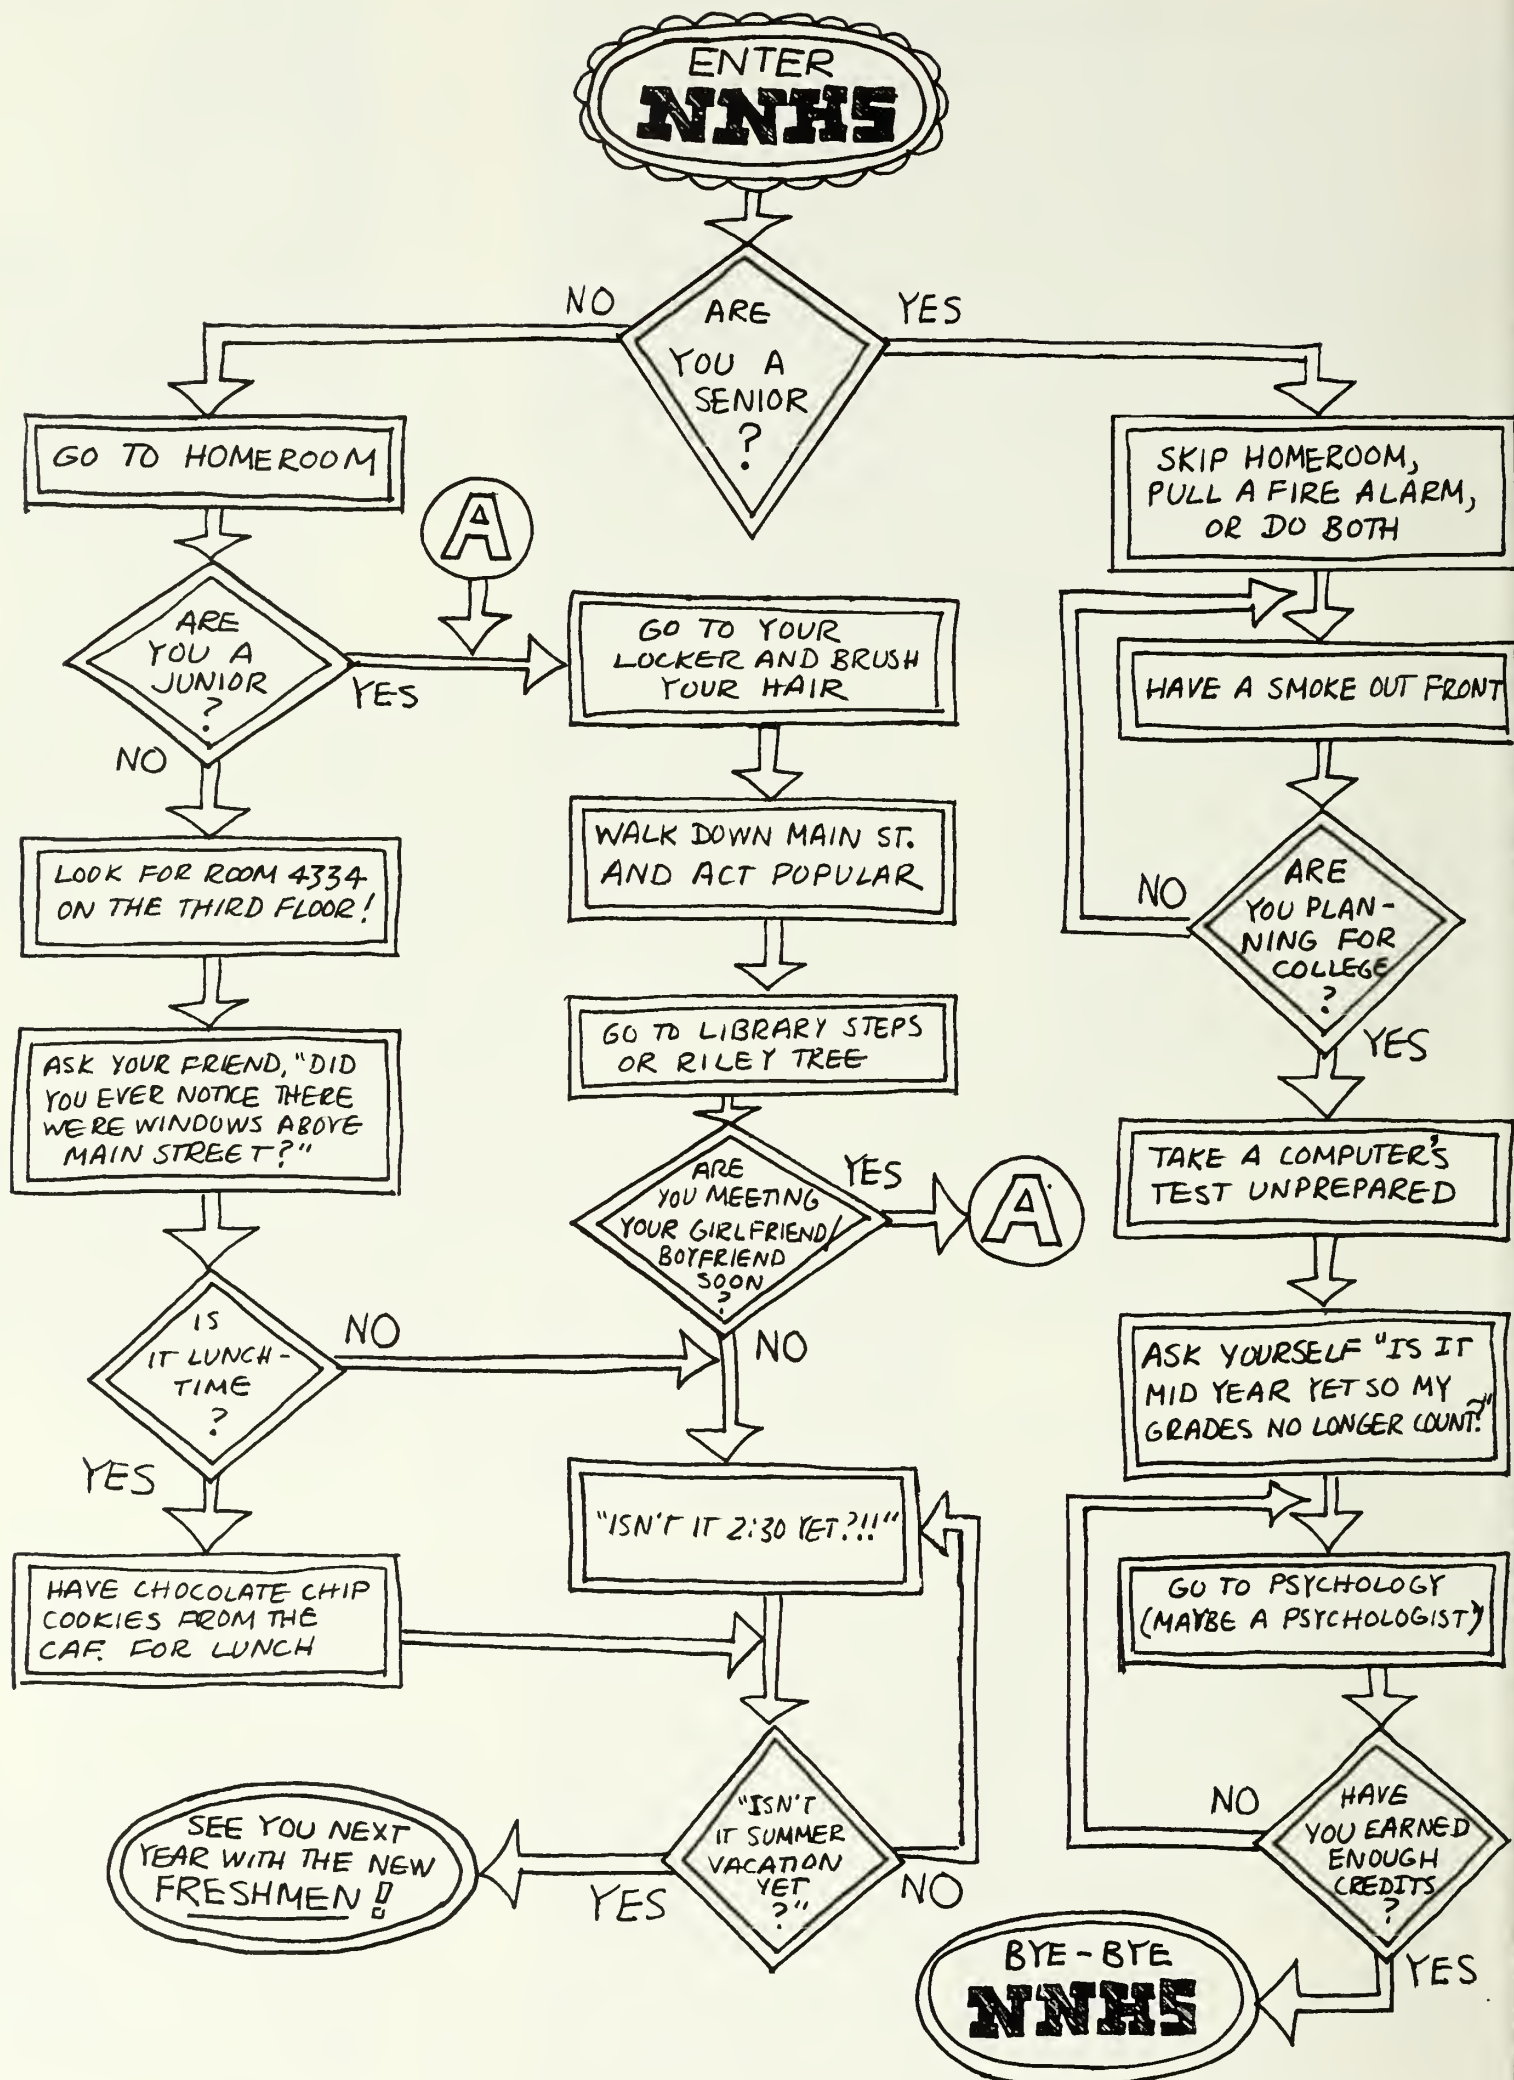

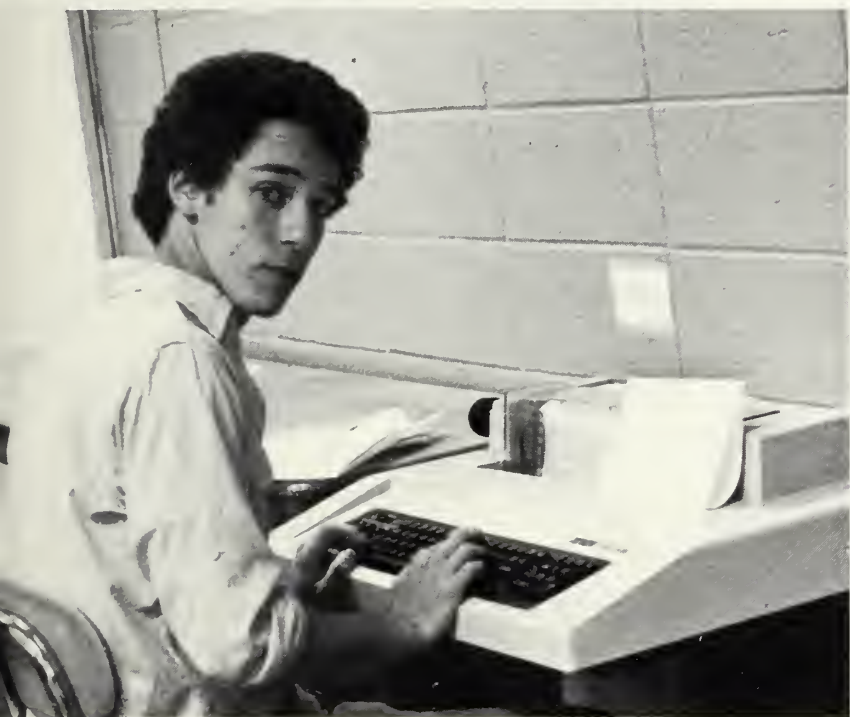

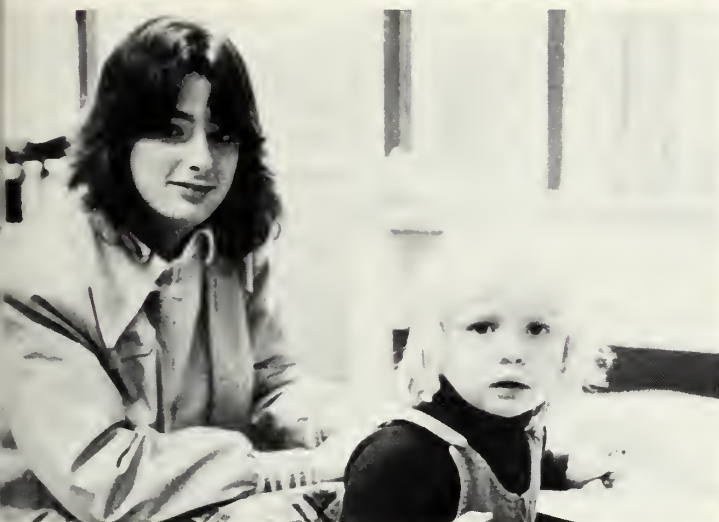

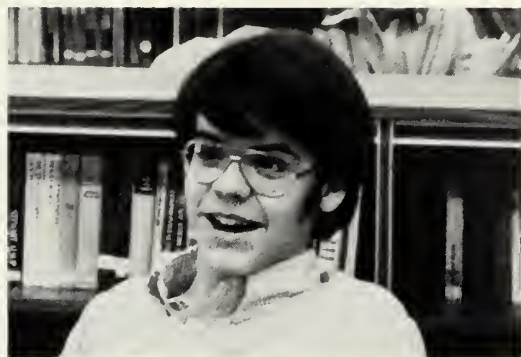

ART AT NNHS

Newton North's Art department offers a wide range of courses from sculpture to calligraphy. In addition to regular classrooms and two galleries, its four connecting studios comprise almost one third of the top floor of the building. Student work is often on display, and is periodically sold to raise money for the annual Art department scholarships. Many students take advantage of the rich offerings and high quality of instruction given by the NNHS Art department headed by Davida Movitz.

BOY'S CROSS COUNTRY

The Boy's Cross-Country at North had a solid rebuilding year, with a new squad and a new coach, Mark Lech. Co-captain Paul Passavant, a returner from last year's team, proved to be one of the Suburban League's top contenders, finishing fifteenth in the Division I finals. Co-captain Gerard McHugh, a consistent high-finisher did an excellent job of leading the small squad, which had been hampered by a low turn-out. Despite their size, the team was very effective receiving strong support from all members, including junior Nicky Leary, sophomore Michael O'Reilly and manager Rosemary Hinteregger. Individual runners did very well at the Suburban League championships and the Division I finals, where five members placed. "Teamwork was a major factor on such a small team," said Passavant, and the 1982 Cross-Country team proved itself hard-working and united.

GIRL'S CROSS COUNTRY

The girl's cross-country team worked for a good record in what was expected to be a rebuilding year. Coach Peter Martin tried to attract new runners to the squad, and the young team improved tremendously during the fall. Captains Ellen Quinlan and Lisa Lyons were the leaders of the tight-knit group of eight, each of whom contributed her own part and earned a letter at the season's end. The inexperience of the team's members gradually gave way as the team worked together until they functioned as a unit. "This closeness," said Martin, "made 1982, in many ways, my most enjoyable team." With a core of experienced runners, North can now expect a bright record next season.

FIELD HOCKEY

The field hockey team went through a disappointing season whose final tally gives little evidence of the team's enthusiasm and spirit. The varsity co-captains led the squad in morale: Laurel Sgan organized a week of summer instruction at a field hockey camp, and Joan Lin played both forward and highly-praised goalie during the season. The entire team played well, tying their opponents three times and often controlling the ball most of the game in their losing efforts. Coach Celeste Myers helped everyone improve throughout the season, and the squad won, 1-0, a post-season exhibition match at the Boston College Indoor Field Hockey tournament.

The football team's record was not indicative of its skill. They lost several games by small margins, and were led by all-Suburban League players: Paul Wessel, Dan Reilly, Tommy Keefe, Dean Morreale, John MacDonnell, and Tim Brandon. Co-captain Billy Pearson also led the offense for the Tigers. The season ended on a victorious note when the Tigers beat Brookline for the first time in four years, 36-6.

GOLF

The golf team, guided by Coach Jack Neville, won the Suburban League championship with a 10-2 record. The Tigers' main strength was not extraordinary talent, but that they had the character to pull off big wins against their challengers. The Team, which practices and plays at the Brae Burn Country Club, won the league by maintaining their intensity throughout the season. The squad's nucleus was a dedicated group of seniors whose maturity carried the squad through situations. Captain Bruce Corwin, John Drew, and Mike Burns were chosen for the All-Suburban team. They will also represent Newton North at the league and State Individual Championships in May. Six players will comprise North's team in June's State Championship.

BOY'S SOCCER

The 1982 Boy's soccer season was one of reconstruction after all, but one member of the varsity squad had graduated the previous spring. That starter, captain Tim Feeney, played well enough at halfback to be named a Suburban League all-star. His colleague, captain Dave Barndt, provided consistent excellence in goal. The team's new coach, Roger Brown, emphasized defense as the key to victory, and the inexperienced squad continued to grow in talent and depth throughout the season. Ultimately coming in third in the League, the soccer team had a very successful year. With the aggressive play of this year's sophomores and juniors, Feeney said, "Next year, you can expect to see the Tigers as a strong contender in Division 1."

GIRL'S SOCCER

The Girls' Soccer team had a very strong season, keeping up the tradition of Coach Barry Howland's previous years. Each player was talented, and contributed her own skill to the team's efforts. Captains Joanne Rossetti, Denise Richards, and Stephanie Stoyanoff, all halfbacks, led the team to second place in the Suburban League, where the Tigers' depth made them a power to be feared. The team suffered a disappointment when two of their non-league victories were nullified by the MIAA, who enforced their rule against playing more than two games in a week. Because of these forfeitures, North lost the home advantage in the first round of the state tournament to Medfield. In a close game that lasted into two overtimes, the squad lost by a score of 2-1. Despite this post-season setback, the girls' soccer team had overall an excellent and enjoyable year.

GIRL'S SWIMMING — DIVING

The girl's swim team was once again powerful in the Suburban League during the fall of 1982, finishing second with a 7-1 record. Coach Colleen White and Assistant Coach Chris Jones provided excellent guidance in every way. The team's depth and versatility gave North its strong showing, but support for each other really defined them. Under captains Stephanie Meyers, Lynne Mann and Mimi Golden, the swimmers and divers generated a tremendous amount of team spirit. North sent several members to the sectional championships, and Lisa Dunn, the squad's strongest swimmer for the past three years, came in second in the state 500-yd. freestyle. The girls' swim team was one of the most successful and the most fun teams at Newton North.

VOLLEYBALL

The volleyball team travelled a rocky road this season with only one returning member of the varsity team and several young players who needed experience. Injuries proved a major stumbling block for the squad, often requiring Coach Jay Cradle to play players, in both varsity and junior varsity positions, two full matches in a single afternoon. The progress of the newer team members was "absolutely amazing," said captain Gretchen Anderson, and the whole team gave much effort each game. Despite its inconsistency, the Tigers were able to defeat North's main rivals, Waltham, Brookline and Newton South, and to play extremely well against the undefeated Boston Latin team. Every player gained a lot in skill and determination.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

The Boys' Basketball Team came back strongly from last year's disappointing season. The squad, led by captains John Humphrey and Dean Morreale, was known through the Suburban League for their quickness and fine shooting, fared well in their competitive league. Coach Jerry Phillips guided the Tigers to several strong victories throughout the season, including a trouncing of Quincy by fifty points and a win over traditional power Cambridge Rindge and Latin. By combining skill with strength, hustle with discipline, the basketball team pulled out a very satisfying year.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The Girls' Basketball team, filled with aggressive and experienced players, kept up a respectable record this year. In the Suburban League, which included some of the strongest teams in the state, they were feared as a team with great potential. Though hampered by early-season injuries and the players' initial inexperience, Coach Allyson Toney built a strong, well-trained squad. Leading scorers were captain Beth Kelley and Kathy Maguire, two players with great skill both on offense and on defense. The team managed to combine experience and energy into a solid season.

BOYS' GYMNASTICS

The Boys' Gymnastics squad worked hard this year, with each athlete triumphing individually and the entire team improving with every meet. Coach Dave Simkins and his assistant, Brian Cove, helped each gymnast to perfect three routines for competition. The entire squad's spirit and unity added to their depth, epitomized by captains Ken Haller and Barry Shapiro, who between them competed excellently in all stages of gymnastics. The record cannot show the overall determination and spirit expressed by this young team.

GIRLS' GYMNASTICS

The Girls' Gymnastics squad reached a new plateau this year, scoring more than 100 points in their win over Natick. Coach Dick Delay credits the captains with much of the team's success. Jane Justice, Cindy Lennihan, and Stephanie Meyer were outstanding both in their leadership and in their effort. In a competitive league, without the experience many other teams had, North's gymnasts had to work harder and longer than many of their opponents. Their victories, sometimes by a close margin, demonstrated how well that extra effort paid off. A young team, the North gymnastics squad has a lot to look forward to.

HOCKEY

The Newton North hockey team skated to the top of the Suburban League this season, their determination making them one of the dominant powers on the ice. "Squad captain Tom Whiting," said Coach Don Crowley, "was one of the keys to the Tigers' success: He took charge and developed into an outstanding leader." They worked together well to make this year one of the best both in record and in fun. With each player giving the best of his skill and the entire team coming together to make the big plays, the team won many big games, including a 5-0 defeat of archrival Waltham. "You can't get much better than that," said Crowley.

BOYS' INDOOR TRACK

The Boys' Indoor Track Team had a steady year with their traditional strengths offset by injuries. Coaches Mark Lech and Hank Van Putten helped the squad make up for what they lacked in depth with sheer determination; the Tigers were always the first off the starting blocks and kept trying throughout the competition. "The whole team was really gutsy," said Captain Paul Passavant, who placed third in the 1000 in the statewide Coaches' Meet. Captain John Drew remained undefeated in the hurdles in dual-meet competition and helped the team to a respectable and consistent season.

GIRLS' INDOOR TRACK

The Girls' Indoor Track Team enjoyed a very good season, becoming a powerhouse in the Suburban League. The entire team improved through the year under the direction and discipline of Coaches Peter Martin and Bob Glennon. Leading the squad were Captains Ellen Quinlan, in the miler, Margie May, in the hurdles, and Mimi DeSouza, in the shot put. All the team could take credit for their part in the exciting upset over Cambridge in which Gretchen Anderson set a school shotput record of 37'8 1/4" and the meet was won only in the last leg of the mile relay.

BOYS' SWIMMING

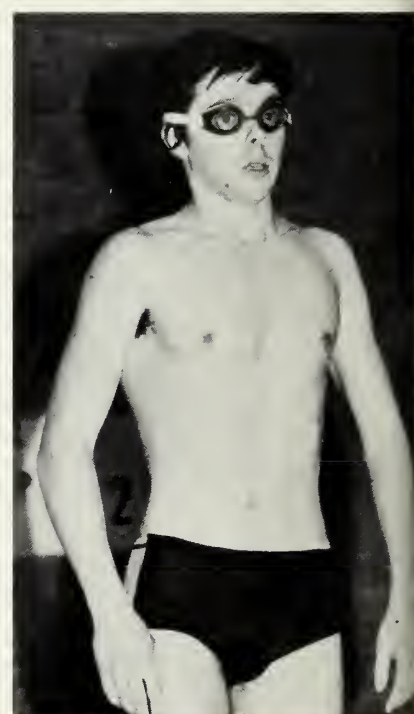

The boys' swim team had a solid year in which every squad member participated and every member should be proud. Captain Ricky Dore was a consistent stand-out, winning many individual races. With relatively few seniors, said Captain Mike Chao, "We've had to work harder to accomplish what we've done." Coach Chris "Doc" Jones coached the hard-working swimmers and the small but effective core of divers to make the team effort which won the toughest victories. Highlights of the season included a strong win over Wellesley and a close match with Waltham which North clinched only in the last relay. The Tigers are a strong, young team and always improving.

WRESTLING

North's wrestlers came together this year for a successful season capped by victories, both team and individual. With discipline and hard work, the squad steadily improved and pulled off strong matches against their opponents. Coach Pat Coleman credited effort from every squad member for the Tigers' successes both in matches against one other school or tournaments attended by many. Among North's champions were Captains John Bresnahan and Leo Butera, winner at 187 pounds of his class at the Catholic Memorial Tournament.

TECHNICAL-VOCATIONAL

HALLOWEEN '82

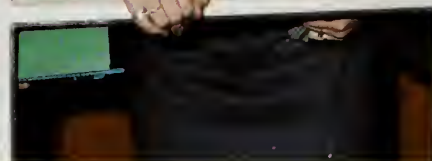

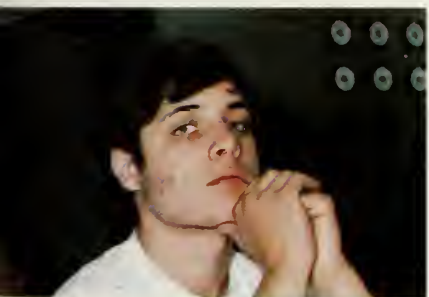

FRIGHTFUL TRADITION.

Psychologists have determined that study is best accomplished in a familiar environment, plainly furnished to remove jarring elements and to keep the mind sharp. There should be a constant hum of background noise which provides the student a rhythm. Mindless distractions every so often help a student relax, but there should be some time pressure to keep mental facilities fully alert. Above all, it is important to be among understanding friends ready to help out. At North we follow these guidelines by doing all our studying in the halls five minutes before class.

VOCALISTS

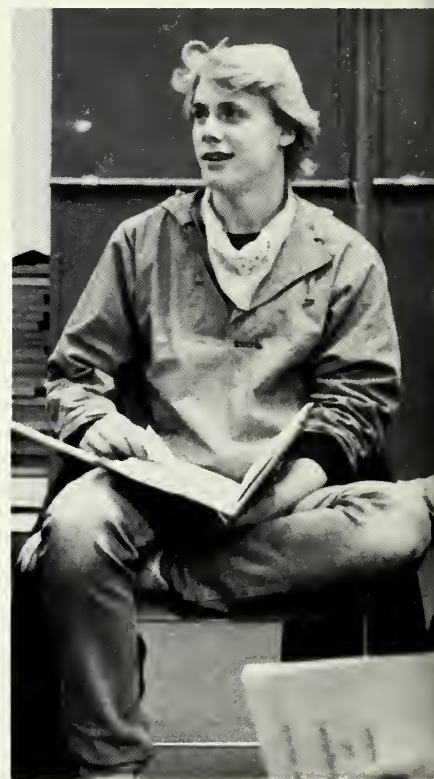

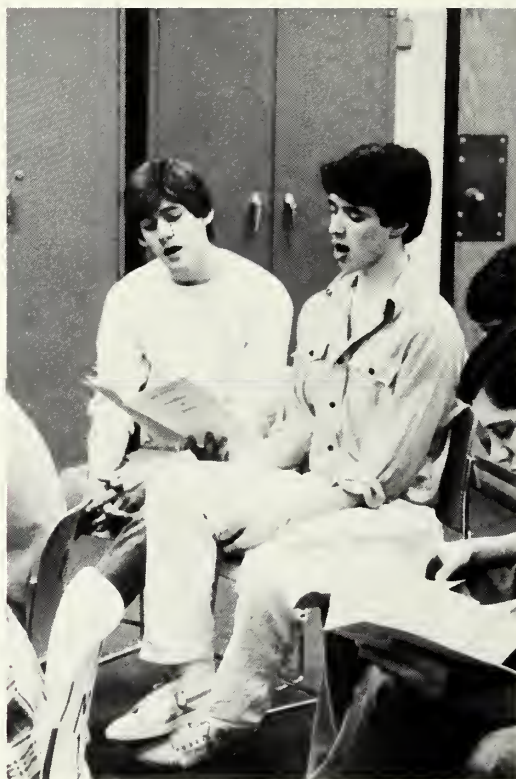

North's vocal groups had a busy year, hosting the chorus from the Nightingale School in New York, performing on television, and giving several concerts throughout the school year. Concert Choir's songs ranged from Bach's "Dona Nobis Pacem" to a Swahili funeral chant. The Family Singers, chosen from the Choir, performed more difficult pieces, and the Sisters added choreographed movements to their songs.

CAROUSEL

DECEMBER, 1982

Rodgers and Hammerstein's Carousel, known for its beautiful score, was performed at North this year under the direction of Eric Benjamin and Raymond Smith. The large cast, which included both male and female choruses, the efficient stage crew, and the orchestra, conducted by Tom Leonard, produced one of the most engrossing musicals at North in years.

The story details the love of young Julie Jordan for Billy Bigelow, the handsome carousel barker who leaves his job to marry her. Pamela Mosher and Steve Miller acted and sang the parts so well that the audience was caught up in their lives, accepting the characters as real. Second leads Aviva Selling and Jim Tosney, as Julie's best friend and her own Yankee beau, brought a further measure of romance and humor to the proceedings.

Unable to support his new and pregnant bride, Billy begins to spend more time with the dangerous sailor, Jigger Craigin (David Reycroft). Reycroft, with his tattoo, his lines, and his rolling walk, at times stole the show from the more wholesome characters. Faced with mounting troubles, Billy commits suicide on the foggy waterfront and travels up to heaven. There he is given the chance to visit his family: his daughter Louise (Mara Zalk), now grown, and his wife, still faithful.

Every stage of the performance was excellent: songs were enthusiastic and moving; dances were energetic and beautiful. Parts were well-acted by the entire cast, from the lascivious carnival owner (Erika Dennis) to the town's sweet social director (Jodi Goldberg). A special note must be made of the portrayal of the school official: the actor seemed made for the part.

MONOPOLY

As the 1983 Newtonian was going to press, there were many more exciting events coming up, in the spring, at North.

The Student musical Monopoly was ready to open in the Little Theater. Co-directed by Jim Tosney and Ellen Waldorf, with musical director Peter May and choreographer Tara Joseph, Monopoly was written just five years ago by Toby Dewey and Jack Megan. The story follows the promotional scheme of the Parker Brothers (Jim Tosney and John Bell) for which three American teenagers (Celia Savitz, Peter Goldfinger, and Tim Gleason), led by a banker (Stephanie Tuck) play a real-life game of Monopoly. A fine ensemble cast which included Jodi Goldberg, Suzanne Burnham, Debbie Waldorf, Gareth White, Sally Phalon, Heidi Hadro, Josh Roseman, and Chris Fraize was to play several parts each as the heroes journeyed from Baltic Avenue to Boardwalk.

MOUSETRAP

North's first production this year was The Mousetrap, Agatha Christie's perennial mystery. Director Tom Leonard and the cast and crew united to put on a taut and well-acted whodunit which kept audiences amused and guessing until the final moments.

At a snow-covered hotel in England's Berkshires are gathered seven suspects for a London murder. The hotel-owner and his wife (Michael Cahill and Liz Reiskin) even suspect each other. An oddly-named architect (Colin James) flits about the manor, accusing everyone, including himself. A rude and haughty matron (Rachel Israel) and the masculine Miss Casewell (Nancy Gaines) peer coldly at each other. The retired army Major (Steve Liberace) and the sinister foreigner who comes out of the night (Tim Gleason) are almost too stereotypical to be true.

From out of the snow, however, comes Sergeant Trotter (Chris Cahill), skiing to the isolated manor to expose the criminal. Yet another murder is committed within the very walls of the inn before the courageous agent of the law can finally apprehend the killer.

The cast was able to maintain both the suspense and the humor of the play until the final moments, every actor playing his part excellently. So finely was each portrayal drawn that a character's personality came through even in the way each sat in the hotel's grand livingroom.

Also a star was the set of Monkswell Manor, designed by Ross Troiano. The room was elegantly and accurately equipped with lamps, antiques, uncounted doors, and a huge window through which one could see the snow that trapped these criminals and victims together.

ROCCO,

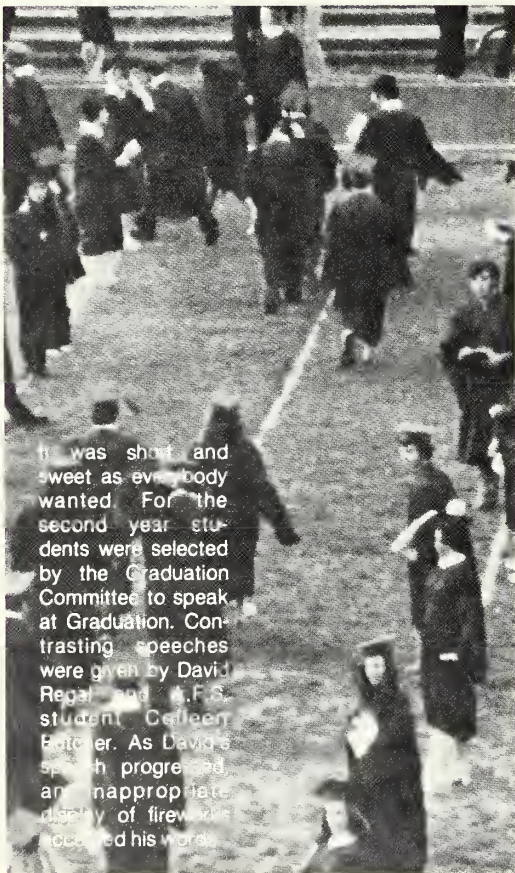

“ROCK ‘N ROLL” REVUE

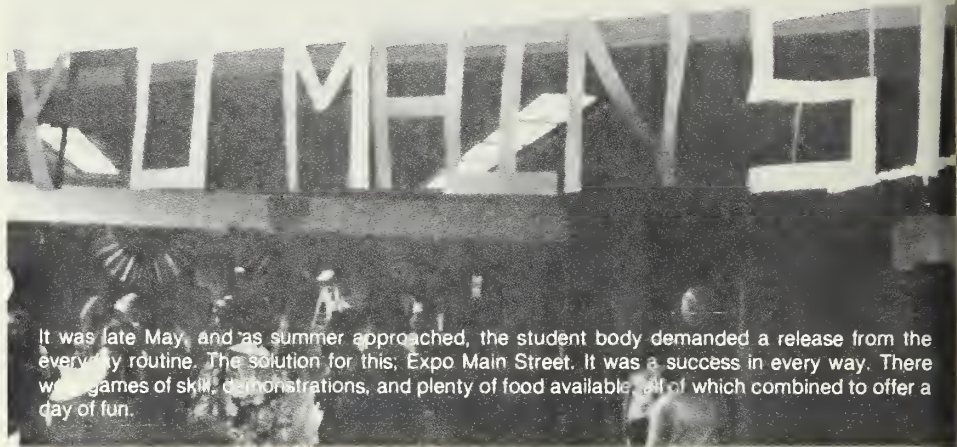

NEWTON NORTH: 1973

The '73-'74 school year began with great rumblings of disorder, especially felt by high school students. The passion and debauchery of the '60's had begun to wash away in the blood of one May afternoon, but the social rebellion was still strong among teens. Young men were being flown to some South-East Asian neverland known only through television, and only some of them came back. The Senate hearings on the Watergate break-in had started the previous spring, and the dealings of a president, whom only Massachusetts had voted against, were coming to light. If the world was no longer upside-down, nobody still knew which way it was pointed.

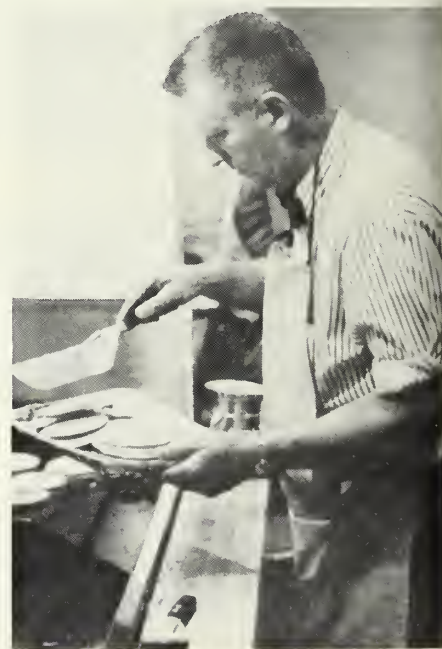

The administrators at North in the new building reacted to their students' confusion with new programs and new freedom. The SFA was only in its third year, but student participation in decision-making was surviving gracefully. New courses stressing creativity replaced standby "gut" classes. Teachers vied with students for the longest hair, and the rally club sank into defeat. House Programs, the largest creation of House autonomy, grouped students and teachers into enclosed communities. Murray Road let students who felt lost in the system and the looming, color-coded building escape to a calmer, more personal education.

It was short and sweet as everybody wanted. For the second year students were selected by the Graduation Committee to speak at Graduation. Contrasting speeches were given by David Regal and A.F.S. student, Catherine Butler. As David's speech progressed, an inappropriate display of fireworks obscured his words.

It was late May, and as summer approached, the student body demanded a release from the everyday routine. The solution for this: Expo Main Street. It was a success in every way. There were games of skill, demonstrations, and plenty of food available, all of which combined to offer a day of fun.

NEWTON NORTH: 1983

This year, North's creativity is directed toward the incoming freshman class and the opportunities they open. Still fighting the revenue loss from Proposition 2½, the school and its students have become more concerned with high school as a preparation, not a refuge. Programs like Uptown and Transition, providing work experience, have supplanted those aimed at lost students. Organized clubs have grown rapidly, and school spirit and unity under the Councils are on their way back. The elective courses of the '70's have become "guts" themselves, or have fallen before apathy. Open Campus and Main St. are restricted, and homeroom has been moved back to the beginning of the day. Even the counter-culture has become regulated in the '80's.

Has the school come full circle through the Ford years, disco, religious cults, Jimmy Carter, and the hostage crisis? Zoom is gone, and in its place is an entire cable channel sponsored by a cereal. Ten years have passed in which nothing outward seems to have changed beyond declining enrollment, yet within the school there has been a profound revolution. The stability of the '70's has produced a school and a student body who are sturdily set on the ground, knowing well which way is up, and which way they want to go.

Transition, an alternative program for seniors led by Ron Boucher and June Namias, provided twenty-two seniors with a room of their own and some unconventional, experience-based learning. During the first semester they met eight blocks a week to study such subjects as philosophy and political science, and to plan for various fund-raising events such as managing the Transition Store, selling Christmas trees, and organizing a flea market. They also spent three days on a survival trip on Falmouth's Washburn Island.

Second semester, students left school to participate in four modules, each lasting one month. Social service, urban, and occupational required students to choose a placement or research project and to devote thirty hours a week to it. The wilderness module culminated in a ten-day canoe trip on the Allegash River in Maine.

EYE OF THE TIGER

It's the eye of the tiger.
It's the thrill of the fight, risin' up to the challenge of our rival.

And the last known survivor
stalks his prey in the night,
and he's watchin' us all
with the eye of the tiger.

Risin' up, back on the street did my time, took my chances.
Went the distance.
Now I'm back on my feet,
just a man and his will to survive.

So many times, it happens too fast.
You trade your passion for glory.
Don't lose your grip on the dreams of the past,
You must fight just to keep them alive.

Face to face, out in the heat, hangin' tough, stayin' hungry.
They stack the odds,
still we take to the street for the kill with the skill to survive.

Risin' up, straight to the top.
Had the guts and the glory,
Went the distance.
Now I'm not gonna stop,
just a man and his will to survive.

It's the eye of the tiger.
It's the thrill of the fight,
risin' up to the challenge of
our rival.

And the last known survivor
stalks his prey in the night,
and he's watchin' us all
with the eye of the tiger.
